

Dr Jean-Philippe Stijns

Jean-Philippe Stijns is Senior Economist at the European Investment Bank (EIB), currently responsible for sovereign and banking sector risk rating in Central African countries, supporting the EIB's operations in the corresponding countries. He is the coordinator of and a contributor to the EIB's annual Study of Banking Sectors in sub-Saharan Africa. He also coordinates EIB's survey of African banking groups.

Prior to joining the EIB, Jean-Philippe held positions at the IMF's Africa Department, with the OECD's Development Centre, as Investment Strategist for ING, and as Assistant Professor of Macroeconomics and International Economics at Northeastern University. While working at the Development Centre, he contributed to the African Economic Outlook.

Jean-Philippe received a joint B.A.-M.A. (summa cum laude) in Economics (University of Liège, Belgium) and a Ph.D. in Economics (University of California, Berkeley).
